

Double Impatiens

Double impatiens are shade-loving annuals with brightly colored, bunchy flowers that resemble miniature roses. An easy annual plant to care for, double impatiens will beautify and fill out your summer display. Double impatiens love shade but will tolerate filtered light for a stretch of up to four hours in the morning, if it is not direct.

Verbena

Verbena is a garden essential that blooms from spring to fall with very little fuss. Plants grow in clumps that reach a height of six to ten inches. These charming little plants are relatively carefree. In fact, the main cause of problems with verbena is over-pampering, especially overfeeding and overwatering. Verbena needs 8-10 hours of direct sunlight every day and deadheading the flowers to keep them blooming all summer long.

Wave Petunia

Petunias are popular cascading annuals. They bloom all summer with little maintenance and make perfect centerpieces and hanging baskets.. They grow best in full sunlight but will survive in shaded areas that provide at least 6 hours of full sunlight daily.

Electric Mix

A gorgeous mix of blue wave petunias and Million Bells (smaller petite petunia with more blooms). They bloom all summer with little maintenance and make perfect centerpieces and hanging baskets. They grow best in full sunlight but will survive in shaded areas that provide at least 6 hours of full sunlight daily.
